Pre-Anesthetic Blood Panel - This requires a small blood sample that is used to test for any abnormalities in vital organ function that are undetectable with a physical examination. Should the test detect any abnormalities, our veterinary staff can adjust the anesthesia accordingly. This procedure is highly recommended by our veterinarians to ensure the safest protocol for your pet.

Pain Medications - Pain medications are always administered prior to surgery, but you also have the option of pain management at home to lessen discomfort that may occur after surgery and improve healing. Pain medications, to be administered at home, may be required depending on the procedure to be performed. This post-op care is highly recommended.

Reproductive Complication Fees - Complications, such as the following, can occur during your pets surgery:

- * Female dogs/ cats experience normal heat cycles and/or pregnancies that are not always detectable with physical exam. Extra costs are incurred if your pet is spayed while in heat or pregnant, even if it is not detected prior to surgery, due to increased blood flow to the reproductive organs and resulting increase in surgery time and supplies.
- * Occasionally, male dogs and cats experience a condition call cryptorchidism. This occurs when one or both testicles remain in the abdomen and do not descend normally. Extra costs are incurred if your pet is cryptorchid due to increased surgery time and supplies necessary for this procedure.
